

BUILDING TRADES COUNCIL SAY NO GENERAL STRIKE

There will be no general strike of building trades in Chicago. This decision was reached at the meeting of the Building Trades council last night when every union on strike sent representatives to say that the strikes were progressing satisfactorily. It was predicted that the protesting unions will win the major points for which they are striking.

The council passed a resolution decreeing that the council should stand by the decision of the Building Trades Department of the A. F. of L. in the contention between the iron workers and the building laborers as to jurisdiction over concrete-steel work.

The iron workers say this means that the hod carriers and laborers are ordered to turn over this work to them. They point to the ruling in their favor at the Seattle national convention in 1913.

"The action of the Building Trades Council does not take the work from us," said J. V. Moreschi, president of the hod carriers' council. "It simply puts the council on record as abiding by the desire of the B. T. dept. We claim the B. T. D. decided in favor of us, for 54,000 men were represented by our delegates and but 7,000 men by the other delegates, though there were more of the other delegates. Anyway, we have this work by agreement, have had it for 15 years and intend to keep it."

An important meeting of iron workers is called for tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. The iron men would not divulge in advance what would be taken up. It was predicted by the iron men that all trouble would be peacefully settled within a few weeks. It is proposed to have committees of ironworkers and hod carriers meet to try and decide upon a settlement.

Sunday being Mothers' Day, the majority will permit mother to cook the dinner in honor of the occasion.

MOTHERS' DAY IS EVERY DAY— HATS OFF TO THEM!

—Hats off!

—Sunday is Mother's Day.

—The Mother's Day spirit is a good one.

—We can all be ticked to death to allot one of our Sundays to our Mothers.

—But we won't acknowledge that just that one Sunday is Mother's Day.

—As far as we can see, every Sunday, as well as every other day of the year, is Mother's Day.

—If our mothers are worth allotting one Sunday to, then they are worth allotting the whole year to.

—Tomorrow, with the knowledge that the day is Mother's Day, we can also say,

And this week is Mother's Week,
And this month is Mother's month,
And this year is Mother's Year, too.

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS

New York. — Fire broke out on board Australian liner Canastota while she was tied up at pier in Brooklyn.

Los Angeles.—2 killed, 4 will probably die, several injured, in collision between Santa Fe train and Pacific electric railway car at grade crossing in city limits.

IDENTIFIED

The class had just been enjoying a strenuous course in mythology, and as the result of the final examination the teacher expected to find some real gems of classic lore.

In answer to the question, "Who was Cyclops?" one paper read as follows:

"Cyclops was the man who wrote the encyclopedia."—Woman's Home Companion.

THE SECRET

He—Can't get the hang of this trot. Somehow I always seem to end on the wrong foot.

She (sweetly)—Yes, mine.—Puck.